

Precision Electroweak Probes of the New Standard Model

I discuss the prospects for probing physics beyond the Standard Model with low-energy semileptonic probes. I will focus in particular on parity-violating electron scattering, weak decays of light hadrons, and a possible search for charged lepton flavor violation at an electron-ion collider.